Keynote Speaker

In this edition of the Congress newsletter we meet Professor Frances Rapport.

Professor Frances Rapport

Professor of Health
Implementation, Australian
Institute of Health Innovation,
Macquarie University

Professor Frances Rapport is Professor of Health Implementation Science at the Australian Institute of Health Innovation, Macquarie University, and along with her team of Implementation Scientists, concentrates on the translation of research outcomes from health services research into practice. Frances's work promotes the uptake of research findings into routine healthcare contexts, policy documents and organisational development. In addition, outputs from her research directly link to educational impact through the new Medical Doctorate Program at the Faculty of Medicine and Health Sciences, Macquarie University, to ensure rigorous mixed methods are embedded into research training and medical practice. Nomination submissions are now open for the ISCMR Scientific Article Prize.

Establishment of this annual award for the best scientific article in the field provides a way to highlight and share excellent research no matter where it was published. This kind of prize allows us to acknowledge the best research in the CAM/IHC field, and helps establish CAM/IHC as a legitimate area of research.

The ISCMR Scientific Article Prize includes:

- $5000 CDN cash prize
- Coverage of travel expenses and free registration to the ISCMR Congress where the article prize will be presented (not to exceed $5000 CDN in value)
- 1 year free membership to ISCMR

Submission deadline for 2018 is November 30, 2018.
